FELL DEAD.

Sudden Death of Ben Alexander
On South Third This Morning.

Sensational Rumor About His Being Poisoned—Evidently Died of Apoplexy.

Ben H. Alexander, a colored man who was employed near Third and Adams streets, fell on South Third street near Adams this morning about 9:30 o'clock, and died in less than half an hour.

He was walking along apparently well, when he fell, and was not conscious when picked up by E. H. Potter, the colored blacksmith whose shop is near by, and Dow Childers. Dr. Horace Rivers was called, but nothing could be done for the man. There was an indication of strychnine poisoning, and Coroner Phelps decided to hold an inquest at Edinger's.

The doctor's opinion was that he died of apoplexy. The evidence developed the above facts, but the inquest was continued in order to take steps to hold an autopsy, and determine whether or not the deceased was poisoned.

Alexander was about 37 years old, and was well known here. His wife is said to have borrowed a dollar this morning with which to pay his insurance. It is said they quarrelled this morning.

At press time no autopsy had been held, and it is probable that none will be, as City Physician Rivers declines to hold it unless paid by the county.

At 3 o'clock Coroner Phelps sent two doctors out to hold the autopsy. County Judge Tully this afternoon decided that no autopsy was necessary. The coroner's jury returned a verdict of death from apoplexy. It is understood that the funeral will take place tomorrow afternoon at 2 o'clock.

FLAG RAISING.

Great Outburst of Patriotic Enthusiasm in Brooklyn Yesterday.

Old Glory Flung to the Breeze With Appropriate Ceremonies By Our Neighbors.

The patriotism of our Brooklyn friends is not to be questioned, nor their devotion to Uncle Sam doubted, while he is knocking the shambles off of Cuba and the bigotry out of boastful, bragging Spain. The following persons are entitled to special mention in connection with the securing and raising of a mammoth flag pole yesterday: Messrs. Mike Whalin, Wm. Pell, J. W. Burgess, F. D. Young, Phillip Murray, Mitchell, Judge R. A. Deegan, Ellis Mann, Richard Hogan and many others. There were present our enthusiastic colored friends to whose strong muscles was largely due the successful erection of the large, heavy pole. But the most pleasing feature attending the patriotic event was the running up of Old Glory to the top of the pole by the tiny hands of the following group of little girls: Mable Whalin, May Marshall, Flora Murray and Maggie Utterback. These little ladies seemed to enter into the spirit of the occasion with as much patriotic enthusiasm as the oldest grizzled veteran on the ground. "Right is right, since God is God, And right the day must win; To doubt would be disloyalty, To fault would be sin."

HUGHES ESCAPED.

Jesse Moreland Hughes, the negro fined $25 and costs the early part of the week for causing a strike at the sewerage works, and with threatening this morning from the chain gang, and is still at large. He had over thirty days in all to serve, and had only served a few of them.

OF HEART FAILURE.

Coroner Phelps this morning held an inquest over the remains of Sylvia Ridd, aged 56, of 1202 Harrison street, who died suddenly night before last. She is colored, and became ill at the colored Baptist church. She was carried home, and died in a couple of hours.

Coroner Phelps was notified last night to hold the inquest, and postponed it until this morning. The verdict of the jury was that the deceased came to her death from heart failure. The remains were buried this afternoon at 2 o'clock.
